AGING IN PLACE: BRIDGES TO CHANGE

INTRODUCTION

A key goal of this directory is to assist older adults and healthy seniors who choose to continue living in their homes, to find the resources that they need and want as their needs change. This is the essence of “Aging in Place” – growing older without having to move. However, when it becomes apparent that a change in living situation is necessary, new options must be explored. This booklet provides resources for both “aging in place” and short-term/long term facilities for comfortable living.

Rockland County has a variety of services for older adults. Someone who is able, mentally and physically, to manage with activities of daily living or just needs a little help may choose to continue to live at home. Homes and communities must become “all-age” friendly.

For those that can't stay in their homes, there are many long-term services designed to meet various needs. The key is to match the person with the type of care and services needed. Finding the right kind environment requires gathering many facts to help in the decision-making process.

Whether you continue to live at home, or move to a new living arrangement, this directory provides you with alternatives to explore including services for meal options, housekeeping, personal care, home delivered meals, senior centers, homemaker/chore services, transportation, continuing education, finances, and safety & security. A mix of services and programs may provide an appropriate alternative to institutional care.

“Aging in Place: Bridges to Change” is a booklet that was originally produced solely by National Council of Jewish Women (NCJW) of Rockland over twenty years ago. Now, in cooperation with the Office for the Aging, it is updated every few years. It offers information for seniors on resources and choices of residences available to them in Rockland County.

If an individual is currently hospitalized, it is suggested that they arrange to meet with the attending physician and the Home Care/Discharge Planning Department of the hospital as soon as possible to determine the patient's post-hospital needs.

All rates quoted in this booklet are subject to change by the individual facility. The information in this publication is the best information at the time of printing.

Editions One through Seven of Aging in Place: Bridges to Change were conceived and executed by The National Council of Jewish Women (NCJW), Rockland Section. Facility information and contact numbers were updated by NCJW. The Eighth, Ninth and Tenth Editions are once again updated and executed by The National Council of Jewish Women, Rockland Section in collaboration with the Rockland County Office for the Aging.

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF JEWISH WOMEN

MISSION STATEMENT

The National Council of Jewish Women (NCJW) is a grassroots organization of volunteers and advocates who turn progressive ideals into action. Inspired by Jewish values, NCJW strives for social justice by improving the quality of life for women, children, and families and by safeguarding individual rights and freedoms.

We thank all the NCJW Rockland Section women who have volunteered their time and energies to develop the previous editions of this directory. Their work has saved us time and effort.

The National Council of Jewish Women, Rockland Section, would like to extend a special thank you to the staff of the Rockland County Office for the Aging for technical assistance and ongoing support in updating "Aging in Place: Bridges to Change."

Once again, a committee of NCJW members and representatives from the Office for the Aging have reviewed and made necessary changes and additions to the information offered.

ASSESSMENT OF NEEDS

In order to seek appropriate services, it is useful to assess the individual's functional and medical problems. People who are experiencing difficulty in performing certain daily tasks may require more care than the family can provide. Suitable care depends on understanding the person's needs and whether their needs can be met in the home setting.

The "Checklist for Assessing Needs" that follows is intended to offer some guidance to determine the appropriate level of care. Proper geriatric assessment also includes a physical examination by a physician.

CHECKLIST FOR ASSESSING NEEDS

Instructions for using checklist

Under Activities of Daily Living (Column A), and Instrumental Activities of Daily Living (Column B), check number 1, 2, or 3.

The Value of

- 1. = Can usually manage alone
- 2. = Can manage with intermittent assistance
- 3. = Cannot manage alone without constant assistance

Under Other Care Factors (Column C) check Yes or No. Each "yes" has a value of 3 and each "no" a value of 0.

A. Activities of Daily Living (ADL)				B. Instrumental Activities of Daily Living				C. Other Care Factors

Total Column A Score_____				Total Column B Score_____				Total Column C Score_____

Add the scores for Column A, B, and C. TOTAL SCORE for all three columns: _____

A score of 20 or less indicates an individual who should be able to remain at home with occasional support from family, friends and community services. A score of 20 to 30 indicates an individual who may need consistent care to remain at home. A score of 30 or more usually indicates an individual who needs a higher level of services that may best be provided in a long-term care facility.

HOUSING OPTIONS AND LEVELS OF CARE

Once you are clear about your needs for care, you can consult with your physician, your family and other care providers to decide on the most appropriate place in which to receive care. Your ability to pay will also influence your decision.

There is a wide spectrum of services in Rockland County beginning with the less intensive, less restrictive community support services to 24-hour residential health care facilities.

- Community Support Services – Community support services help keep both frail and healthier older adults at home. There is a concerted effort by governmental agencies as well as private agencies to provide support services to assist the frail elderly in their efforts to remain in their own homes as long as possible. A complete list of Community support services can be found in “Services for Older Adults” available from the Rockland County Office for the Aging (845-364-2110 or 845-364-2100).
- Active Senior Communities (55 and over) – These communities are reserved for those individuals or couples who are age appropriate and wish an active lifestyle.
- Affordable & Subsidized Housing – This housing is usually for elderly and disabled individuals, with income limits. “Affordable” means minimum and maximum income limits. If “Subsidized,” then maximum income limit, and rent depends on income.
- Senior Residences – Senior residences offer some supportive services for those in good health, still active and able to live independently. Most offer housekeeping, dining rooms for congregate meals and planned activities.
- Adult Care Facilities – The New York State Department of Health licenses and regulates adult homes, enriched housing programs, and residences for adults, collectively known as adult care facilities. These facilities provide temporary (respite) or long-term, non-medical residential care services to adults who are substantially unable to live independently; which may be due to physical, mental, or other limitations associated with age or other factors. Residents are provided with personal care and services on a long-term basis, in order to enable them to remain healthy and to participate in daily personal and community activities. For more information about these services including assisted living, visit <https://profiles.health.ny.gov/acf/services>
- Assisted Living Programs (ALP) – An ALP is a program, rather than a physical building, which serves persons who are medically eligible for nursing home placement but serves them in a less medically intensive, lower cost setting. ALP provides personal care, room, board, housekeeping, supervision, and case management services. ALP residents must not require continual nursing care, be chronically bedfast or chair fast, or be impaired to the degree that they endanger the safety of other ALP residents. Assisted Living Programs must meet licensing requirements of the New York State Department of Health.
- Assisted Living Residences (ALR) – An ALR is a certified adult care facility that has been approved by the DOH for licensure as an ALR. They must provide twenty-four hour on-site monitoring along with personal care services. ALRs must also provide daily meals and snacks, case management services, and are required to develop an individualized service plan (ISP). The law also provides important consumer protections for people who reside in an ALR. See the Consumer Information Guide to ALRs: health.ny.gov/publications/1505.pdf
- Residential Health Care Facilities (Nursing Home) – A residential health care facility provides nursing and medical care. Care of the resident is carried out under the orders of an attending physician with a registered nurse on duty 24 hours a day. All of these facilities operate under the strict regulations of the federal government and the New York State Department of Health. An evaluation, called a Patient Review Instrument (PRI), is required in order to apply for admission to a Residential Health Care Facility. Contact the hospital Discharge Planner or Rockland County Department of Health, Patient Services of the Licensed Home Care Service Agency (LHCSA) 845-364-2534 for further information about the PRI.

- Memory Care – Communities that provide specialized care of those living with Alzheimer's or other forms of dementia in a secure, structured environment. Memory care is often provided within the context of a residence that offers other levels of care, such as assisted living.

WAYS TO MEET COST OF CARE

Individuals may meet the cost of Community Support Services:

- From their own income, assets or health insurance
- By applying for reduced senior rates, senior cards, and other discount programs offered by their town and school district
- By being eligible for a lowered "sliding scale" fee from non-profit and governmental agencies
- By receiving benefits for "medically necessary" expenses approved by Medicare
- By being eligible for the governmental assistance program, Supplemental Security Income (SSI)
- By being eligible for Medicaid. Medicaid may cover:
 - Home health care services including homemaker, home nursing and home health aide services if ordered by a physician.
 - Approved cost of physicians, dentists, hospitals, x-ray and lab services, outpatient or clinic services, podiatry, optometry and chiropractic services, physical therapy, occupational therapy, speech pathology and audiology, home care and psychiatric care, as well as drugs, eyeglasses, hearing aids, medical supplies and equipment.
 - Approved transportation services, respite care and adult day care.

Individuals may meet the cost of Active Senior Communities (55 and over) or Senior Residences:

- From their own income and assets

Individuals may meet the cost of Affordable Housing or Adult Care Facilities:

- From their own income and/or assets
- By meeting income and resource eligibility requirements for Supplemental Security Income (SSI)

Individuals may meet the cost of Assisted Living Programs or Assisted Living Residences:

- From their own income/assets and/or long-term care insurance
- By being eligible for Medicaid

Individuals may meet the cost of Residential Health Care Facilities or Memory Care:

- From their own income, assets, health insurance or long-term care insurance
- When short-term rehabilitation is indicated, costs may be met by Medicare
- By being eligible for Medicaid

EVALUATING A FACILITY

Leaving one's home environment to live in a long-term care facility represents a major and often difficult change in a person's way of living. Sharing with a large number of people, loss of privacy, parting with lifetime possessions, and the regimentation of an institutional setting, are examples of the kinds of changes that may occur. Continued contact with family and friends is helpful in an individual's adjustment to change.

It is therefore very important to choose the facility that provides the kind of care which will meet the individual's physical, social, emotional and spiritual needs. There is a variation in the quality and types of services provided at the different facilities.

Whenever possible, do not wait until the last minute to begin the process of choosing a facility. It is strongly recommended that you visit each facility under consideration at least once and look, listen, ask and smell. We suggest you visit on various days, at different hours, in order to determine the character of the facility.

The following checklist applies to considerations for selecting a facility which meets the individual's needs.

LONG TERM FACILITY CHECKLIST

	Facility A		Facility B
	Yes	No	Yes	No
Personal Considerations
• Observe how residents interact with staff. Does the staff show Respect for the residents in their care?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Is there enough staff?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Is there care in selecting roommates? Are requests for changes in rooms, roommates, and table assignments honored?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Are the residents involved in a variety of activities tailored to their needs and interests?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Is the food served attractively, menus varied and does the facility take into account the likes and dislikes of the residents?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Can a resident bring any personal items or furniture with them to the facility? How is the laundry handled? Is it ironed? What about name tags?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Are wheelchair users accepted at the facility?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Are languages other than English spoken by residents and staff?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Are the residents who were out of bed dressed in street clothes, rather than pajamas or robes? (Appearance can tell you if good personal care is being given).	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Is there an RN or LPN on the floor or wing? (Does not apply to adult care facilities)	☐	☐	☐	☐

	Facility A		Facility B
	Yes	No	Yes	No
Programs and Care
• Are appropriate recreational and educational programs provided?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Is there a resident council?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Is an ombudsman program in effect?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Can residents use a private physician?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Is there a full-time physician on staff or on call at the facility? (does not apply to adult care facilities)	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Are residents required to use wheelchairs even if a less restrictive aid, or no assistive device, would be appropriate	☐	☐	☐	☐
Environment
• Is the outside and inside of the facility clean and in good repair?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Is the facility free of unpleasant odors?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Is it easy for residents in wheelchairs to move around?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Is the lighting appropriate for what residents are doing?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Are there outdoor areas accessible for residents to use?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Is furniture used by residents in good repair?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Are there railings along the hallways?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Did you notice clocks with easy-to-read faces, and calendars indicating day and date?	☐	☐	☐	☐
How the Facility Handles Payments
• Are all fees clearly explained?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Does the facility provide a written list of extra charges?	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Do they accept Medicaid? (does not apply to adult care fac.)	☐	☐	☐	☐
• Is the resident or the resident's family informed in advance when charges are increased?	☐	☐	☐	☐

Once you have visited a facility, consider your reaction to the residents, staff, policies, programs and the physical environment. Your “gut feeling” is important. Selecting a long-term care facility is one of the most important and difficult decisions that you may be asked to make, either for yourself or for a member of your family. Do not rely on any one source when making your decision.

HEALTH CARE PROXY

The New York Health Care Proxy Law allows you to appoint someone you trust — for example, a family member or close friend – to make health care decisions for you if you lose the ability to make decisions yourself. By appointing a health care agent, you can make sure that health care providers follow your wishes.

Additional information about this law can be found online at the NY State Department of Health Website: https://www.health.ny.gov/professionals/patients/health_care_proxy/

A sample health care proxy form, which can be printed and filled out, can be found at: <https://www.health.ny.gov/publications/1430.pdf>

VITAL INFORMATION

Vital information should be collected and kept in a safe and convenient place. This should include the name and phone number of your primary physician and whom to contact in an emergency. A wallet-size card is a useful way for individuals to keep vital information handy in an emergency. A sample card is provided below.
